VMI

Successful, real-time production requires managing, streamlining, and optimizing every part of the process so nothing is wasted.

Let Capital Electric show you how! Our Vendor Managed Inventory (VMI) System was developed to help you maximize your daily operations, expenditures, and quality control. We understand what's important to you:

Communication

Production goals are met when communication is a priority. When objectives, deadlines, and consequences are clearly stated and readily shared, the chance for significant downtime is drastically reduced.

Trust

Our goal is to focus your staff and resources on actual production; this can only be accomplished through absolute transparency. Information and processes are crystal clear so there are no questions, or doubt, regarding Capital's role in your contract fulfillment.

Reliability

Choosing the right partner is vital to success. Our constant attention to quality and best practices give you the assurance that components will be available the way you need them, when you need them - regardless of shifts in your production schedule.

Your benefits from Capital Electric's VMI System include:

Reduced Inventory (Increased Turns)

Stocking unused inventory = significant financial investment. Our VMI System helps increase turns by reducing the need for safety stock, because frequent reviews of demand and inventory provide real-time data. Capital will also compare on-hand inventory to suggested order points to ensure rapid replenishment when stock falls below a set amount.

Fewer Stock Outages

Full visibility of true demand and lead time allows us to better manage your order calculations. Guaranteed: Capital Electric will recognize the need to replenish your inventory before stock runs out.

Administrative Cost Savings

By assigning the responsibility for replenishment to Capital Electric, you will experience fewer rush orders since demand and inventory are carefully monitored. Your procurement team will require less time and effort to maintain purchasing information, reconcile invoices to purchase orders, and oversee other key administrative tasks.

For manufacturing companies with demanding production schedules, Capital Electric's VMI System is another way we strive to be At Your Service.
